

Dentists, Doctors and Veterinarians call for true One Health collaboration starting from university

Outcomes of open debate on Implementation of One Health in undergraduate education.

One Health<sup>1</sup> is a concept that recognises interlinks between human health, animal health and the environment. The value of the One Health holistic approach is undisputed when it comes to tackling different challenges to public and animal health.

Academics, students, professionals and policy makers were engaged in lively discussions about One Health in Paris on 5th December 2018. Participants exchanged their views' about the value and necessity for working together on a common understanding of One Health concept and on promoting interdisciplinary collaboration starting from universities.

The European associations representing medical doctors, dentists, veterinarians and their students remain committed partners for future actions to be undertaken towards the implementation of the One Health approach in education and practice and call on academics and policy makers at national and European level

- To work on the development of a clear definition to ensure a common understanding of the One Health concept;
- To foster exchanges between medical, dental and veterinary schools under the One Health approach;
- To work together on One Health Competences;
- To support and ensure the continuation of this open debate;
- To support the further investigation of implementation of One Health interdisciplinary education of doctors, dentists and veterinarians.

Outcomes of the open debate have been summarised on a briefing report.

The European Dental Students Association (EDSA) was founded in Paris in November 1988. Now, the EDSA represents over 65,000 dental students in the European region. More and more dental students do see the need of coming together and talk about their differences but even more about the things they have in common.

The goals of the organisation

- to inform students about the E.C. organisation and politics in relation to dentistry
- to promote, inquire and describe the standardisation of dental curriculum within European dental schools
- to promote exchange programs and encourage students to take part in these programs
- encourage national dental students associations to co-operate on a national level
- to create possibilities to encourage students to meet each other on an individual level

Twice a year, all the delegates of the European Dental Students Association come together to brainstorm for new projects and keep improving the existing. Furthermore, we discuss dental politics, social and domestic affairs. Representatives of the national members (full and prospective) attend these general assemblies.

The European Medical Students' Association (EMSA) is a non-profit NGO representing medical students across Europe. Founded 1990 in Brussels, it is the only voice of students within European Medical Organisations. EMSA is recognized by the European Parliament, the European Commission, and the United Nations.
